SUPER BOWL LII RECAP: PATRIOTS VS EAGLES

JOE PANTORNO, SPORTS EDITOR

While this wasn't the most ideal Super Bowl matchup for New Yorkers, Super Bowl LII was one of the best. The Philadelphia Eagles won their first-ever Super Bowl and first NFL title since 1960 by defeating the favored New England Patriots in one of the most explosive offensive performances in the game's history.

BRANDON GRAHAM'S STRIP SACK

I Tom Brady has the ball stripped by Brandon Graham late in the fourth quarter with the Patriots trailing by just five points. It was recovered by Derek Barnett which led to a Jake Elliott field goal to put Philadelphia up eight. Brady's fumble doomed the Patriots to their fourth-ever Super Bowl loss and the third suffered by Brady and head coach Bill Belichick.

BRADY PUTS ON SHOW FOR THE AGES

2 Despite the loss, Tom Brady put on a Super Bowl performance for the ages, passing for 505 yards and three touchdowns. Not only was it the most passing yards in a single Super Bowl, but it was the most put up by any quarterback in any postseason game in NFL history. Regardless, Brady was denied his sixth title, which would have made extended his NFL record.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM SUPER BOWL

ECSTASY

3 Zach Ertz of the Philadelphia Eagles scored an 11-yard fourth-quarter touchdown past Devin McCourty of the New England Patriots in Super Bowl LII at U.S. Bank Stadium on Sunday in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

GRONKOWSKI ARRIVES LATE TO THE PARTY

4 Patriots tight end Rob Gronkowski celebrates after his 4-yard fourth-quarter touchdown reception against the Philadelphia Eagles in Super Bowl LII. Gronkowski was a non-factor in the first half, recording just nine yards on one catch. He came alive in the final 30 minutes though, recording eight receptions for 107 yards.

FOLES PUTS ON MVP PERFORMANCE

5 Philadelphia Eagles quarterback Nick Foles hauls in a fourth-down 1-yard touchdown reception against the Patriots during the second quarter of Super Bowl LII. Foles became the first player ever to pass and catch a touchdown pass in a Super Bowl. The game's MVP passed for 373 yards with three touchdowns.

Eagles end drought, outlast Patriots for first Super Bowl title

The Eagles are NFL champions for the first time since 1960.

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The ghosts of 1960 can officially be put to rest. The Philadelphia Eagles are Super Bowl LII champions after defeating the New England Patriots 41-33 on Sunday night from US Bank Stadium in Minneapolis.

Backup quarterback Nick Foles hit tight end Zach Ertz for a game-winning 11-yard score with 2:21 remaining to secure Philadelphia's first Super Bowl ever and first NFL championship in 58 years.

Foles won the game's

MVP award, passing for 373 yards with three passing touchdowns and a receiving score as Carson Wentz's replacement found a way to outduel Tom Brady and Bill Belichick, who were appearing in their eighth Super Bowl together.

Brady once again put together a stunning performance on the game's biggest stage, passing for 505 yards and three touchdowns. He set a Super Bowl and NFL playoff record for most passing yards in a single game, but it still wasn't enough in an offensive shootout that saw a championship game record 1,151 total yards.

The game's opening two drives stalled in the red zone as both teams had to settle for opening field goals from Philadelphia's Jake Elliott and New England's Stephen Gostkowski within 30 yards.

Gostkowski's 26-yard field goal was the first points recorded by the Patriots during the first quarter of a Super Bowl in the Brady-Belichick era.

The first touchdown of Super Bowl LII came in the form of Foles' 34-yard strike to Alshon Jeffery in the back of the end zone to give the Eagles a six-point lead, an advantage that did not grow after Elliott missed the extra point.

Gostkowski joined Elliott's kicking troubles early in the second quarter, missing a 26-yard field goal off a botched snap early in the second quarter to end the opening streak of scoring drives at three.

While the Eagles defense began to get pressure on Brady, the offense continued to click as Blount ripped off another big run, a 21-yard touchdown to put the underdogs up 15-3 after a failed two-point conversion with 9:45 remaining.

The Patriots responded with nine unanswered points to get within a field goal. After a Gostkowski field goal, James White scampered in from 26 yards out to cap off a 90-yard drive that was efficiently completed in just 2:57. However, Gostkowski missed the ensuing extra point.

Philadelphia's offense continued to click, expanding its lead to 10, 22-12, at halftime thanks to some trickery on a 4th-and-goal from the one. A reverse to backup tight end Trey Burton became a dizzying pass play when he hit a wide-open Foles with 38 seconds to go. The Eagles quarterback became the first player in Super Bowl history to record both a passing and receiving touchdown.

It was a frantic end to a frantic half that saw both teams combine for 673 total yards, the second-highest output in Super Bowl history.

But the offensive frenzy only continued as three-straight touchdown drives opened the second half.

After being held to just one reception for nine yards in the first half, Patriots tight end Rob Gronkowski came alive on the opening drive of the third quarter, catching four passes for 68 yards, including a five-yard touchdown pass to bring the Patriots back within three.

The Eagles looked as though they were not going to fall into the same lull as the Falcons did last year, answering right back when Foles hooked up with Corey Clement for a 22-yard score. However, the Patriots continued to counterpunch when Hogan hauled in a 26-yard dime from Brady.

An Elliott field goal broke the trend of touchdowns in the second half, which opened up the door for the Patriots to take their first lead of the game when Brady and Gronkowski got together again on a four-yard touchdown to go up, 33-32, with 9:22 to play.

Obamacare had record 4M New York sign-ups this year

There were about 700,000 more sign-ups in the New York State of Health marketplace than during last year's open enrollment period.

NIKKI M. MASCALI
nikki.mascali@metro.us

More than four million New Yorkers signed up for the state's Obamacare in 2018, setting a new record of enrollment for the program, state officials said Thursday.

Upward of 4.3 million residents, approximately 700,000 more than those who signed up during last year's open enrollment, will receive health care this year. Open enrollment ended Wednesday after the state gave a six-week extension that began Dec. 15.

"Covering 4.3 million New Yorkers is truly a historic milestone," said Donna Frescatore, executive director of the New York State of Health marketplace.

Of the sign-ups, 2.97 million enrolled in Medicaid, while 738,851 chose the state-run and federally funded Essential Plan, which is available for lower-income residents who don't qualify for Medicaid or Child Health Plus. The latter plan saw 374,577 enrollments.

Statistics about this year's open enrollment will be available soon, marketplace officials said.

While President Donald Trump last year cut off $1 billion in federal funding for the Essential Plan, both Gov. Andrew Cuomo and Attorney General Eric Schneiderman said New York, along with Minnesota, would file lawsuits against the president's action.

"The abrupt decision to cut these vital funds is a cruel and reckless assault on New York's families — and we will not allow it," Schneiderman said. "I won't stand by as the federal government continues to renege on its most basic obligations in a transparent attempt to dismantle the Affordable Care Act. We're suing to defend these vital funds and the quality, affordable health care they ensure for New Yorkers."

Amtrak blames freight firm for deadly South Carolina train crash

Amtrak blamed a freight rail operator for causing a crash on Sunday that killed two people and injured more than 100 others when one of its passenger trains was diverted onto a side track and slammed into a parked, unmanned freight train in South Carolina.

In the passenger rail operator's third fatal crash in as many months, Amtrak train 91, carrying nine crew members and 136 passengers, was traveling from New York to Miami when it hit the CSX Corp freight train that was stopped on a side track, or siding, at about 2:35 a.m.

Amtrak President and Chief Executive Richard Anderson said CSX was responsible for the tracks and signals, including one that had a lock attached to it and diverted the Amtrak train onto the side track.

Two crew members were killed in a South Carolina train crash on Sunday. GETTY IMAGES

"CSX had lined and padlocked the switch off the mainline to the siding, causing the collision," he said in a statement.

CSX did not address the comments by the Amtrak CEO but said it was working with federal investigators.

President Donald Trump received updates while at his resort in Florida. "My thoughts and prayers are with all of the victims involved in this morning's train collision in South Carolina," he tweeted. REUTERS

HAPPY 105TH ANNIVERSARY, GRAND CENTRAL TERMINAL

Let us all rejoice in celebrating the 105th Anniversary of Grand Central Terminal, which first opened on Feb. 2, 1913. Contrast this with the late, great Penn Station Terminal which was destroyed in the name of progress in 1962. Fast forward, 56 years later. Penn Station is still a shell of its former glory. There is no natural lighting, decent food court, gourmet food shops, upscale stores or quality restaurants. Most Long Island Rail Road and New Jersey Transit commuters rush in and out each day. Grand Central Terminal has high ceilings, natural light, a food court, gourmet food shops, upscale stores and great restaurants such as the Oyster Bar.

Not only do Metro North commuters have a real terminal, but they are joined on a daily basis by thousands of people who work nearby and patronize the great food court, quality restaurants and stores. LIRR commuters just have a station. Few people who work near Penn Station stop by during the day to patronize any of its commercial establishments.

LIRR riders will be lucky if the MTA's Eastside Access project provides a direct connection to Grand Central Terminal via the 63rd Street tunnel and reaches beneficial use by December 2023. We can then join our Metro North comrades in utilizing this great institution to and from work.

Perhaps it might be useful in 2018 to look for other low-cost, easy-to-implement alternatives in the short run. Consider transit riders' disappointment that a proposal submitted by one of NYC's developers, Vornado Realty Trust, to pay for construction to reopen the old Hilton Corridor, also known as the Gimbel's passageway was never completed. They had offered to do this in exchange for a city zoning variance to construct a high-rise office building at 7th Avenue and 32nd Street. While the zoning variance was approved, Vornado Realty Trust never moved forward with construction of a high rise office building.

Until the 1980s, both LIRR and New Jersey Transit riders exiting east at Penn Station had a direct underground passageway known as the Hilton Corridor. It was also known as the Gimbel's passageway. Gimbels was Macys chief competitor at Herald Square. They closed in 1986. This passageway still stands dormant. It is a forgotten underground link between Penn Station and Herald Square.

The Vornado Trust developers' proposal to reopen and widen it from some points where it narrows to 9 feet was $50 million. Converting the total length to 15 feet wide could cost up to another $100 million. This seems like a reasonable investment of $150 million out of a $32 billion 2015 to 2019 Capital program plan.

If Gov. Andrew Cuomo can find $2.6 billion in new money for LIRR Main Line Third Track, why can't he find $150 million for reopening this passageway? Construction could be completed within a year or two versus six or more years for LIRR East Side Access to Grand Central Terminal.

Baby Boomers Benefitting From Knee Arthritis Treatments

10-Minute Technology Guided FDA-Cleared Painless Medical Treatments.. Allows Patients To Stay Active

New York City - Nothing is more true. A life with constant pain is not a life worth living. And if you can't stay active and do all the things you love - like walking, playing golf, tennis, vacationing etc. It's not really a life at all.

...the Pain Is More Like A Prison

And for generations, knee arthritis has given good, hard working people a life sentence of pain and suffering. To make things worse, slick marketers only add to the pain by promising wonder cures. Late night television and your mail box are filled with "wonder arthritis cures" that make wild claims and sound too good to be true . . . Because They Are

Nothing is worse than getting your hopes up - spending your hard earned money - only to be let down time after time.

It is easy to give up...

But while marketers were peddling "wonder cures," real doctors and researchers were hard at work trying to discover a real medical solution. Modern medicine eradicated small pox and polio. Through laser eye surgery, doctors can give almost blind people perfect 20/20 vision. The potential cures on the horizon with breakthroughs like stem cell and regenerative therapies are endless.

Solve The Riddle Of Arthritis Pain?

For the past 3 years, that's exactly what a medical clinic in New York City has been doing. The NYC Pain MD doctors have been able to help thousands of knee arthritis sufferers with cutting-edge treatments and technology older generations could only dream about. One of these treatments in particular has helped thousands of patients ease or eliminate pain and go back to doing their favorite activities like: walking, playing golf, tennis and many more. The treatment is called viscosupplementation. But wait. This is NOT the typical viscosupplementation. So if you are one of the many knee arthritis sufferers who already had viscosupplementation and did not get great results - what you are about to discover should be very important. to you in particular. It might even get you out of pain.

Here is why: During viscosupplementation, a special lubricating gel is put directly into your arthritic knee joint. This not only helps the knee joint to glide more smoothly, it acts as a cushion, protects the joint. and relieves a lot of pain. This is often referred to as "joint oil." In many cases, when done properly, this can dramatically lessen knee pain for up to 6 months and much longer in many cases.

And even better - if this treatment works for you the first time - it can be safely repeated when necessary and the results are often better for some.

Like Threading A Needle?

The key to this treatment being successful is actually getting the special lubricating gel directly into the joint where it can go to work. That's why the doctors at NYC Pain MD use very advanced digital imaging that allows them to see directly into the joint and make sure the lubricating gel "hits the spot" and the treatment has the best odds for success. Studies show that doctors doing these types of procedures without this special imaging actually miss the joint space up to one third of the time!

"I've had trouble with my knee walking. I'm a golfer and want to play golf but I couldn't. I made the call and went and it's the best thing I ever did. It's just - now I can play golf, I can walk, I can climb stairs, I can do things I did many years ago".

"It's the smartest thing ever did" "Since I've been going for the treatment for my knees I don't take any pills, I take not over the counter medication.."

"This a good alternative to surgery." "I am so glad I went. I'm so confident I feel so good about it and I recommend It to everybody."

William La Spina . Golf Enthusiast

(While we cannot guarantee that all knee arthritis pain sufferers will respond like the patient noted above, we can say these results are possible.)

Why Treatment Can Fail

This is why viscosupplementation can fail for some people. It is also why many knee arthritis sufferers come to NYC Pain MD after failed treatments elsewhere... and are finally able to get relief. It is not uncommon for patients to travel hours for these advanced and precise treatment methods.

Patients Should Be Assured About Precision Treatments

If you have already had this procedure without this advanced imaging... Or if it was not used throughout the procedure, there is a good chance you did not get the maximum results you could have and should have.

What The Research Says About Results:

Can We Slow Down Arthritis? A retrospective study of nearly 1000 cases of knee arthritis between 49 and 79 years old was done by an orthopedic surgeon in Louisiana. Patients with Grade 4 or "bone to bone" who presented for consideration of knee replacement were instead put on a program of image-guided gel injection procedures. Follow up almost 4 years later revealed that about 3 of 4 had done well and had not need surgery...regardless of age or even if overweight.

Another study was done by Pearl Diver research group who reviewed 198,000 files of those who underwent this type of treatment. Follow up 2 years later revealed 82% had not required surgery.

Massive Cost Saving For Patients, Insurance Companies & Medicare?

While surgery may be the best option for some...for others, due to fear of surgical risk, medical ailments that may prohibit surgery or for those that are just seeking less invasive alternatives, the costs savings can be staggering. In a study published in the American Journal of Managed Care, a potential savings of $4706.00 per patient if treated with viscosupplementation was estimated. In a theoretical population of 100,000 (NYC is over 10 million) over a 3 yr. period, 808 knee replacements were projected to be avoided and up to $9,131,819 could potentially be saved by patients, medicare and insurance carriers. This should be welcome news for rising health care costs.

Who Can Benefit From This Treatment?

This treatment is not for everyone. But it may be for you if you have sensations of grinding or rubbing, pain on simple weight bearing, getting up from sitting or even simply

Treatments Their Parents Could Only Dream About

If this sounds like you, then seeing one of the specially trained doctors at NYC Pain MD could be the best thing you could do for yourself. But it is suggested you do not wait as arthritis can easily worsen with more time.

And this is very important - especially for those who have had viscosupplementation in the past without good results. Many patients who did not have good results elsewhere are often able to get a favorable results because of the advanced imaging technology and procedure experience at NYC Pain MD.

Even doctors themselves are often patients at NYC Pain MD.

there are many factors at play — fiscal, psychological and the increasingly erratic behavior of the leader of the free world.

You tell me: Will Trump impose crazy trade tariffs? Will he spook Rocket Man? Will he fire Robert Mueller? Will he and Devin Nunes keep waging war on the Justice Department and the FBI? Will Democrats tame the chaos with the midterms?

Answer that. Then, maybe I can tell you if Live by the Dow. Die by the Dow.

In last week's State of the Union address, Donald Trump crowed loudly about how his soaring stock market "smashed one record after another!" And in fact, during Trump's first year in office, the Dow Jones industrial average did go up 31.5 percent.

That was nice. Not as nice as Barack Obama's first year, when the key market index leaped 34.9 percent. But still worth a tentative bow.

Emphasis on "tentative."

It's always dicey hanging too much on the stock market, which has a nasty habit of moving in two directions, up AND down. As if to prove it —look out below! — there was the Dow on Friday free-falling 665 points, or 2.5 percent. It was the sixth-largest point drop in history, capping the market's worst week in two years.

Is a bigger crash coming? Will stocks climb again? I don't know, and neither does Donald. Predicting the future is often a fool's game, and

Pentagon reveals new nuclear weapons strategy, reversing Obama-era policy

The Pentagon released its new nuclear weapons strategy on Friday afternoon, announcing that two new types of weapons will be made and effectively reversing the Obama administration's policy to reduce America's nuclear arsenal and de-emphasize nuclear warfare as a defense strategy.

The new policy calls for the introduction of "low-yield nukes" on submarine-launched ballistic missiles, and the resumption of the nuclear-submarine-launched cruise missile (SLC-M) whose production stopped during the George W. Bush era and which Obama removed from the nuclear arsenal.

President Obama had made nuclear disarmament a goal of his administration and said the U.S. had a "moral obligation"

President Trump has vowed to increase the U.S. nuclear arsenal. GETTY IMAGES to lead the world by example. The Trump administration disagrees in the wake of threats from Russia and North Korea.

The new low-yield nukes are intended to answer an overseas attack by Russia, the Washington Post reported. Russia has a large arsenal of small nuclear weapons, which the U.S. does not. The Pentagon worries that Putin's army could take control of an ally and detonate a small nuclear weapon to prevent U.S. troops from responding. Low-yield nukes would provide a proportionate method of response, forestalling a larger nuclear conflict or one with weaker weapons.

Anti-nuclear advocates were alarmed to see that cyberattacks were included in a list of strategic threats and accused the Pentagon of lowering the bar for nuclear warfare. The new policy "calls for more usable nuclear weapons with low yields, and for their first use in response to cyber and conventional strikes on civilian infrastructure such as financial, transportation, energy and communications networks," said Bruce Blair, co-founder of the anti-nuclear group Global Zero. "It makes nuclear war more likely, not less." MICHAEL MARTIN

DEMOCRATIC MEMO

House intelligence panel to take up Democratic memo Monday: Sources

The U.S. House Intelligence Committee will consider on Monday whether to release the Democratic rebuttal to a Republican memo that alleged bias at the FBI and Justice Department against President Donald Trump, two sources told Reuters.

The four-page Republican memo, made public on Friday, has fueled a battle between Trump and top leaders at the FBI and Justice Department over Special Counsel Robert Mueller's investigation into alleged Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election.

The memo accuses the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Justice Department of using misleading information when they sought approval from a top secret court to monitor the communications of a former Trump campaign adviser, Carter Page, on Oct. 21, 2016.

Investigators asked the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act court for permission to monitor Page as part of the wider probe into alleged Russian meddling in the election and potential collusion between Trump's campaign and Russia.

Russia has denied meddling. Trump has insisted there was no collusion by his campaign and has called the Mueller probe a "witch hunt" and a "hoax."

Democrats accuse Trump and his Republican allies of trying to use the memo to undermine the Russia probe and possibly make the case for the firing of Mueller or Rod Rosenstein, the No. 2 official at Justice who is overseeing Mueller.

The Republican-led House Intelligence Committee released the memo, which said the FBI and Justice Department sought a warrant for monitoring the communications of Page based on unverified information from a dossier partly paid for by Democrats.

Tweeting from his resort in Palm Beach, Florida, on Saturday, Trump said the Republican memo "totally vindicates" him in the Russia investigation and called Mueller's probe a "disgrace."

But several Republican lawmakers who spoke about the controversy on Sunday disagreed with the president, including Trey Gowdy, a member of the House Intelligence Committee and one of the authors of the Republican memo.

Speaking on the CBS program, "Face the Nation," Gowdy said he believed the Republican memo showed sloppiness by investigators in their application to the FISA court. But, he said, the Russia probe should continue regardless.

"I am on record as saying I support Bob Mueller 100 percent," Gowdy said. "I say investigate everything Russia did, but admit that this was a really sloppy process that you engaged in to surveil a U.S. citizen." REUTERS

The annual event offers free and discounted classes at buzzy gyms in the Union Square neighborhood, and a second chance for you to get fit this year.

Say you started the new year strong, working out five days a week, being militant about sticking to your diet. But now winter is wearing you down, and all you can fathom doing is sitting in the bathtub and streaming shows (let's call it Netflix and soak ... and mope).

You're not alone. But to be honest, the endorphins from exercise will do wonders for your case of S.A.D. You need to sweat. And now you've got an occasion for a do-over.

On Thursday, Feb. 8, the fourth annual Union Square Sweat Fest kicks off a week of more than 40 free and discounted classes at some of the buzziest gyms and fitness studios in the 14th Street area.

"Union Square, for a lot of different reasons, has always been at the epicenter of what's new and interesting in the health and wellness scene," says Jennifer E. Falk, executive director of the Union Square Partnership, which produces the event alongside the wellness brand Fit & Love. She explains that Sweat Fest lowers the barrier to entry, providing an opportu-ness levels.

The 20-odd participating gyms include Fhitting Room, Flex Studios and Yoga Vida. The list also features newcomers to the neighborhood, such as Spiderbands, a studio which (literally) elevates cardio workouts, from kickboxing to circuit training, using "spider bands" to achieve body-weight suspension.

You'll get perks in return for your exertion: Throughout the festival, local businesses in the health and wellness space, including Cava, Whole Foods and Paragon Sports, will reward participants with swag bags and complimentary refreshments.

The week closes Saturday, Feb. 13 with Sound Off Yoga, which pairs silent disco and yoga flow, at the W Hotel.

Classes and events — a mix of ticketed and complimentary — are first come, first served. Visit unionsquaresweatfest.nyc to reserve a spot before it sells out.

HQ Trivia: What is it, and how do I win?

Inside the mobile phone app that's a literal game changer.

ALEXANDRA CAVALLO
letters@metro.us

Have you ever wondered where your phone-obsessed friends, family and coworkers have been disappearing to week-days at 3 p.m. and daily at 9 p.m. for the past few months?

They're hanging out with Scott Rogowsky, the host of HQ — a trivia app that's part live game show, part stand-up and all about rewarding the smartest among us with actual greenbacks. Jimmy Kimmel's hosted. Ellen's into it. Where've you been?!

Here's the concept: After you download the free app you, and hundreds of thousands of other contestants, will get daily notifications come game time (you can see how many people you're up against by way of a counter located in the corner of your screen). Enter Scott, an affable comedian with a penchant for millennial-meets-dad jokes (the self-proclaimed "Quizzie McGuire" drops lines like, "Hey, HQties! I am your host with the challah French toast!"), and each game's 12 questions. They run the gambit of sports, politics, news, entertainment and the truly bizarre. A 10-second clock starts as he begins reading each question — leaving no time to Siri yourself a correct answer — and at the end of the 12, the people with the most correct answers split a pot of money.

That's right, an actual prize of $1,000 — sometimes as much as $15,000. When there are a bunch of winners you might see your PayPal account credited with enough change to cover a cup of coffee; when questions are super-savage, the spoils of war can be a whole lot more.

So how do I win?

Well ... do as we say, not as we do (this particular writer tends to bomb out around question four or five). Assemble a squad of varied backgrounds to compete as one (then split the kitty among your team). Questions vary from common knowledge to super-obscure, so don't dismiss the weirdo next to you on the bus.

HQ's getting a lot of press for shifting our binge/on-demand lifestyles back to tuning in to an event at a specific time. And Rogowsky thinks that's a very good thing.

"It's just a positive, joyous jubilation on the internet, which is so rare," he told Business Insider. "It's usually a very sad and angry place. But I think HQ is injecting some positivity back into the mix."

So go download the app and join the weird HQ revolution before it inevitably loses its popularity. You could be a thousand-air by the weekend.

The HQ — Live Trivia Game Show app can be downloaded for free on iTunes and it works on iOS devices.

Don't let your kid become a cyberbully

And how young is too young for your child to be on social media?

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

It seems like today's kids are born knowing how to navigate technologies their parents are still just getting used to, which is nothing new (remember having to set the clock on the VCR for your parents because they were clueless?). But today, the ramifications of being plugged in are a lot more profound than catching or missing a night of must-see TV, dependent on the automatic timer.

Every day we hear nightmarish stories about children getting picked on by cyberbullies or viewing content that they shouldn't on the darkest parts of the web. So how can parents educate themselves and better protect their children from online hate ...

Grom Social is teaching children how to be good digital citizens. iStock and prevent them from inflicting digital disses on others?

Advocacy group Campaign for a Commercial-Free Childhood (CCFC), recently wrote a letter to Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg pleading for him to shut down its newly minted Facebook Messenger Kids app, which was designed for 6- to 12-year-olds.

"Younger children are simply not ready to have social media accounts," the letter reads. "They are not old enough to navigate the complexities of online relationships, which often lead to misunderstandings and conflicts even among more mature users. They also do not have a fully developed understanding of privacy, including what's appropriate to share with others and who has access to their conversations, pictures and videos."

That said, they'll find a way — so how can parents teach their children how to be upstanding digital citizens?

Baby steps

According to Zach Marks, founder of the kid-friendly social media platform Grom Social, providing guidance through the early stages of a child's awareness of social media will make a world of difference. Grom Social is a highly monitored platform that Marks created when he was 12 (he's 17 now) that both provides a place for children to connect with their friends as well as learn how to safely exist online. The platform has classes for kids, and uses cartoons to teach children about cyberbullying.

Furthermore, the network will only allow children to join with the permission of one of their parents, who will be able to observe their children's chats as well as be assured that the platform is closely monitored around the clock.

"What I wanted to do at Grom Social," explains Marks, "is that when a kid does sign up for a social media website when they're 13 or under, they can have fun and talk to their friends in a safe place, and their parents can feel comfortable. They're learning how to use social media so that by the time they're 14 and move on to another social media site, they know how to use it properly."

Facebook, Pinterest, Snapchat and other networks require users to be at least 13, but today it's common for 10-year-olds to have accounts. With that in mind, parents are encouraged to start teaching their kids about the etiquette and pitfalls of social shares by age 8 at the latest.

Was Super Bowl LII an all-time best?

The Philadelphia Eagles became just the second team to beat Tom Brady and Bill Belichick in a Super Bowl, delivering a game for the ages. GETTY IMAGES

The Eagles and Patriots delivered an instant classic on Sunday night.

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

When we're in the throes of emotional moments, whether it be ecstasy or anguish, we have a tendency to overreact. That's just who we are as human beings.

As football fans, we've been spoiled over the last two decades as there have been a number of those famous first Sunday nights in February in which the statement "this is the greatest Super Bowl ever," has been exclaimed.

While we're not here to bash your opinion of what constitutes the greatest NFL title game ever, we will tell you that most of you are wrong.

And let us be one of the first to tell you that Super Bowl LII between the New England Patriots and Philadelphia Eagles was one for the history books.

If you like offense, this year's installment of Super Sunday was for you as we saw a Super Bowl record shattered for combined total yards.

While Eagles quarterback Nick Foles came away with MVP honors, Tom Brady set not just a Super Bowl record, but an NFL postseason record with 505 passing yards to go with three touchdowns.

He also became the first quarterback to put up two 400-yard performances in a Super Bowl. He passed for 466 yards last season against the Atlanta Falcons.

So where do we rank this game among the best of the best? We attempted to objectively look at the 10 best Super Bowls in NFL history:

SUPER BOWL XXIII

SUPER BOWL XLII

The Giants picked the lesser of two evils, allowing Thurman Thomas to run rampant compared to Jim Kelly picking the defense apart. It did the trick, but not by much as Scott Norwood's missed field goal will forever make "wide right" a painful pair of words in Buffalo.

While this was not nearly as entertaining a game as many Super Bowls, Joe Namath's guarantee will be one of the everlasting examples of what brashness can do in big situations. The Jets victory not only provided one of the biggest upsets in sports history, but brought some much-needed respect to the AFL which helped spark the merger between leagues.

Knicks embarrassed by Hawks

Kent Bazemore's late three-pointer lifted the Hawks to a rare win on Sunday at the expense of the struggling Knicks at Madison Square Garden. GETTY IMAGES

Knicks fall in the final minute to the worst team in basketball on Sunday.

JOE PANTORNO
@JoePantorno
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The New York Knicks added another embarrassing result to their standing this season, dropping a 99-96 decision to the Atlanta Hawks, the worst team in the NBA, on Sunday afternoon at Madison Square Garden.

Squandering a four-point lead in the final minute, Kent Bazemore's three-pointer with 8.5 seconds remaining relegated the Knicks to their third-straight loss.

New York's two best offensive options were not on their game as Kristaps Porzingis' inconsistent 22 points and Tim Hardaway's nine on 3-of-9 shooting hampered the Knicks all night.

Porzingis was a non-factor for most of the night with just six points in the first half, forcing the Knicks to look elsewhere for some kind of scoring presence.

But the afternoon was clouded with controversy after a late three-point play by Hardaway was negated because the officials forgot to give Bazemore a third free throw on the previous Hawks possession.

Had Hardaway's play stood, the Knicks would have taken a six-point lead with just under 3:40 remaining in the game. Instead, it was just a two-point advantage after Bazemore made his added third free throw.

The most productive Knick of the night was backup point guard Trey Burke, who put up 14 points in 20 minutes on 6-of-10 shooting as he kept the Knicks in the game early on despite being held to just 36-percent shooting in a first half that saw Porzingis record just six points.

They got a boost though in Enes Kanter, who helped picked up the slack scored all 10 points of his points in the third, to get the offense back in motion.

Burke and Kanter's efforts were doing just enough for the Knicks to maintain a slim advantage over the Hawks that rarely wavered from more than a two-possession game in the final minutes.

Up four in the final minute, after Porzingis missed his second free throw and Hardaway Jr. ill-advisedly chucked up a poor shot after wrangling in the offensive rebound, Mike Muscala's three-pointer cut it to one-point with 47 seconds to go.

The Knicks came up empty on the following possession after Kyle O'Quinn attempted a difficult fadeaway jumper from the free-throw line, setting up Atlanta's game-winner thanks to precise ball movement in their transition game.

The Knicks had a pair of chances to at least tie in the final seconds, but Hardaway stepped out of bounds on the baseline with 6.3 seconds to go.

After Dewayne Dedmon hit one of two free throws to make a three-point game, Hardaway missed a three-pointer as time expired.

Aries Make changes if you don't like the way things are going. Dig in and do something that will help you feel good about who you are and what you have to offer.

Taurus Changes made without your consent should not be taken personally. Don't make a fuss. Set your sights on personal goals, and head in a direction that suits you best.

Gemini Size up your situation. Change what isn't working for you and expand your interests to include money-making projects. Romance and an updated look are all feasible.

Cancer Look past other people's flaws and spend more time working on yours. A chance to make a difference should be pursued with gusto. Avoid making criticisms.

Leo Positive changes at home will bring you closer to the people you love and enjoy spending time with. Sticking to a budget will help you avoid worry and opposition.

Virgo Learn from your experiences with others. Share only what's necessary, or you could leave yourself open to ridicule. Being a good listener will give you the upper hand.

Libra Stop procrastinating. If you want change to happen, you need to do something about it. You have the intelligence and wherewithal to turn your dreams into reality.

Scorpio Don't get entangled in someone else's melodrama. Do your own thing and explore new possibilities. Be disciplined when faced with temptation.

Sagittarius You'll be energetic and eager to make changes. Before you get started, make sure the information you've been given is accurate.

Capricorn Don't get down when you should get moving. Refuse to let the actions of others interfere with your plans. Stay focused on whatever will help you reach your destination.

Aquarius Express your gratitude for what you have and show interest in what others have to offer. Getting along well with others will result in peace, love and happiness.

Pisces Keep busy and engage in activities that will stimulate your mind and make you question who you are. Strive for personal perfection. EUGENIA LAST
